SHERIFF JIM O'SULLIVAN

Dear Citizen:

The Chesapeake Sheriff's Office strives to provide the citizens of Chesapeake with a high quality of service. The Sheriff's Office employs more than 400 highly trained law enforcement individuals who perform at the highest levels of excellence. It is our desire to help create the safest living environment for our citizens and those incarcerated in Chesapeake.

The COVID-19 pandemic continued to create a unique set of obstacles for our office in 2022. We continuously adapted to protect our inmate population, staff, and the community at large from the virus. Prevention precautions are still in place today and will remain in place indefinitely. As COVID19 restrictions lifted within our community, the Sheriff's Office was able to host our large community events for Chesapeake's children, (Children Today Leaders Tomorrow - Annual Football Camp) and for Chesapeake's seniors (Senior Support Services Seminar.)

The Sheriff's Office worked closely with the City Manager's team and the Public Safety Alliance to develop a Public Safety Pay Plan. The plan was adopted by City Council in December 2021 and implemented effective January 2022. The pay plan was designed to keep Chesapeake's public safety employees within the top three pay ranges in our region, and to also address an appropriate amount of separation between pay grades to combat compression. As a result, our sworn vacancy rate has decreased dramatically, enhancing our ability to further build our dynamic community partnerships.

I am proud to present this 2022 Annual Report which provides statistical information regarding the Office as well as highlights and accomplishments of the year. I welcome and appreciate any feedback that you may have regarding this report.

Sincerely,

Jim O'Sullivan, Sheriff

“WELCOME TO THE CITY OF CHESAPEAKE!!!”

History of the City of Chesapeake

Chesapeake's history dates back much further than 1963 when Norfolk County and the City of South Norfolk merged to create Chesapeake. The city's landmarks and communities have a long, varied, and interesting history. The first English settlement began around 1620 along the banks of the Elizabeth River. Norfolk County's founding dates back to 1636.

In the early months of the Revolutionary War, in December 1775, British Royal governor Lord Dunmore moved his forces from Norfolk to Great Bridge where his army entrenched itself to await the arrival of American forces. The two armies clashed on December 9, 1775, in the historic Battle of Great Bridge, just a few hundred yards from where the Chesapeake Municipal Center complex stands today. In a brief but decisive battle, the Americans routed Lord Dunmore's forces which fled to Norfolk and later abandoned that city.

In 1793, work began on the Dismal Swamp Canal, an idea first envisioned by George Washington in 1763, when he visited the swamp. Because the canal was dug completely by hand, progress was slow and expenses high. The canal finally opened in 1805, but experienced hard times over the years. Completion of the Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal in 1858 dealt a serious blow to the Dismal Swamp Canal. Now on the National Register of Historic Places, the Dismal Swamp Canal is the oldest operating artificial waterway in the country. Both canals are operated by the Army Corps of Engineers and form part of the Atlantic Intracoastal Waterway.

The first local encounter of the Civil War occurred at Sewell's Point in May 1861. Although no battles were fought in the Chesapeake area, Union troops occupied and laid waste to much of the land. When the war ended, Norfolk County took advantage of its abundant natural resources. Its coastal location, miles of riverfront and deep-water harbors and the fertile, level farmland allowed county residents to recover quickly from the wartime destruction, moving without hesitation into the 20th Century.

While most of the area retained its rural atmosphere through the early 1900s, the northern section near the growing City of Norfolk began to develop as the suburb of South Norfolk. By 1900, South Norfolk had its own waterworks, public schools, and a post office. Two rail lines spurred rapid growth, allowing South Norfolk to incorporate as an independent town in 1919 and a city of the first class, independent of Norfolk County, in 1950.

The area that now comprises Chesapeake grew with residential and commercial development of "community crossroads." These areas are still commonly referred to today with community names such as Pleasant Grove, Great Bridge, Oak Grove, Fentress, South Norfolk, Portlock, Deep Creek, Western Branch, Indian River and Hickory.

During the 1950s, both Norfolk County and South Norfolk fell victim to annexation suits filed by neighboring cities. Between 1950 and 1960, the country lost nearly 50,000 residents and 30 square miles of land area. Under these circumstances, both Norfolk County and South Norfolk officials found it difficult to plan for the future.

In the fall of 1961, city and county officials met to discuss the feasibility of a merger. After several weeks of negotiations, both governing bodies approved a merger agreement on December 22, 1961. On February 13, 1962, citizens of both communities turned out in near-record numbers for a special election and approved the merger. Later that year, in June, the citizens voted again and selected the name "Chesapeake" for the new city.

On January 2, 1963, the Chesapeake City Council, with five members from South Norfolk and five from Norfolk County met for the first time. These men set the stage for Chesapeake's growth and development and determined how to provide services for the new city's residents.

During the 1960s and 1970s, the young city began to develop a comprehensive network of city services, including police and fire protection, schools, libraries, parks and recreation, health, utilities, land use planning, transportation network and more. Planning for the city's future was a key need. Chesapeake's 353 square miles offered much opportunity for development.

Much of this development began to occur during the 1980s, both residential and industrial. To help keep pace with this growth, community centers, schools, a new social services building, City Hall, and court building were constructed during this period. Voters approved a $30 million road bond referendum in 1986, and in 1988 approved bonds for additional school and library construction.

Increased economic development efforts also met with much success in the 1980s. One of the area's first Japanese-owned companies, Sumitomo, moved to Chesapeake in 1988. Sumitomo was soon followed by Mitsubishi Kasei, which now operates three plants in Chesapeake

Other companies, such as the Dollar Tree Corporation Headquarters, Damuth Trane, and Plasser American, continue to be attracted by Chesapeake's labor force, excellent location, and high quality of life.

Chesapeake's population has grown from approximately 78,000 in 1963 to 251,811 in 2022.

Today, Chesapeake is a unique blend of rural and urban centers, providing its citizens with excellent schools, recreational and cultural facilities and strong municipal leadership as the city continues to grow, meeting the challenges awaiting it in the 21st century.

History of the Chesapeake Sheriff's Office

The new independent City of Chesapeake was created in 1963 when the former independent City of South Norfolk consolidated with Norfolk County. The consolidation was authorized by the Virginia General Assembly and the new name was selected by the voters by referendum. The new city joined the ranks of the current Seven Cities of Hampton Roads which are linked by the circumferential Hampton Roads Beltway.

Sheriff J. Arthur Hodges, the Sheriff of Norfolk County from 1944 to 1969 assumed the role of City Sergeant for the new City of Chesapeake. John R. Newhart, a former Chesapeake Police Officer ran and won the position of City Sergeant in 1969. Sheriff Newhart retired September 30, 2012, after 42 years in office. Jim O'Sullivan, Undersheriff, assumed the duties of Sheriff on October 1, 2012.

The Chesapeake Sheriff's Office, by state statute, carries a dual responsibility of Corrections and Law Enforcement. The city of Chesapeake has a separate Police Department whose primary function is law enforcement and the Sheriff's Office supports the Police Department in their pursuit of law enforcement functions.

The Sheriff's Office's prime responsibility rests with the operation of the Chesapeake Correctional Center, transportation of inmates, providing security for all courts within the city, and serving as the law enforcement arm of the courts.

The Sheriff of the City of Chesapeake assumes a multi-faceted role beyond that imposed by state statute. The Sheriff is ultimately responsible for the day-to-day administration of the Sheriff's Office, for the overall operation of the jail, and for the civil and court related functions. He is more than a local correctional administrator; he is the public administrator of a major office of city government.

The Chesapeake Sheriff's Office is organized and operated in a semi-military manner. The department is divided into three sections: Administration, Corrections and Court Services.

Chesapeake Sheriff's Office

Mission Statement

The Mission of the Chesapeake Sheriff's Office is to deliver effective law enforcement services through transparency, integrity, innovation, enthusiasm, and community partnerships. We identify and meet the challenges of our community by building dynamic partnerships which enhance the quality of life of those we serve.

Law Enforcement Code of Ethics

As a law enforcement officer, my fundamental duty is to serve the community; to safeguard lives and property; to protect the innocent against deception, the weak against oppression or intimidation and the peaceful against violence or disorder; and to respect the constitutional rights of all to liberty, equality and justice.

I will keep my private life unsullied as an example to all and will behave in a manner that does not bring discredit to me or to my agency. I will maintain courageous calm in the face of danger, scorn, or ridicule; develop self-restraint; and be constantly mindful of the welfare of others. Honest in thought and deed both in my personal and official life, I will be exemplary in obeying the law and the regulations of my department. Whatever I see or hear of a confidential nature or that is confided to me in my official capacity will be kept ever secret unless revelation is necessary in the performance of my duty.

I will never act officiously or permit personal feelings, prejudices, political beliefs, aspirations, animosities, or friendships to influence my decisions. With no compromise for crime and with relentless prosecution of criminals, I will enforce the law courteously and appropriately without fear or favor, malice, or ill will, never employing unnecessary force or violence and never accepting gratuities.

I recognize the badge of my office as a symbol of public faith, and I accept it as a public trust to be held so long as I am true to the ethics of police service. I will never engage in acts of corruption or bribery, nor will I condone such acts by other police officers. I will cooperate with all legally authorized agencies and their representatives in the pursuit of justice.

I know that I alone am responsible for my own standard of professional performance and will take every reasonable opportunity to enhance and improve my level of knowledge and competence.

I will constantly strive to achieve these objectives and ideals, dedicating myself before God to my chosen profession . . . law enforcement.

All deputies are required to abide by the Law Enforcement Code of Ethics as adopted by the Chesapeake Sheriff's Office and the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

About 1800 seniors attended with more than 30 vendors offering information, services, and resources to help our local seniors.

The “Elite Unite” of the Chesapeake Sheriff’s Office

The "Elite Unit" is a community program designed to provide individuals with intellectual disabilities an opportunity to serve their community and experience the various duties of a law enforcement officer. The program is the first of its kind in Hampton Roads. Sheriff Jim O'Sullivan created the program in 2019 and swore in its first class in 2021.

This is done with the use of The File of Life Packet which includes.
 1. A red sticker that states File of Life. This is to be placed on or near the front door or the rear window of their car to alert emergency personnel that you have the File of Life.
 2. A red magnetic packet with File of Life written on the top edge, which is to be attached to the front your refrigerator or kept in glove compartment. This is the location where emergency personnel will go to when they enter your residence or facility. The packet will contain a file that will list the vital information to be filled out by the participant.
 3. The file is contained in the magnet packet. All information must be filled out in pencil due the constant changes in medications and medical information.

- Project Lifesaver: Project Lifesaver allows selected patients with Alzheimer disease and/or dementia the opportunity to be fitted with a special electronic transmitter. - The 911 Cell Phone Bank program: The 911 Cell Phone Bank program is a program for victims of Domestic Violence. It provides victims of Domestic Violence with a cell phone for 911 emergencies. This gives victims a sense of safety, security, and having an avenue to contact authorities if needed. The phones are loaned until the court date or for a period of 30 days. However, since every situation is different the time allotted can be extended. Victims are responsible for keeping the phones charged and are urged to keep the phones with them at all times. Many victims have benefited from this service.

- Victim Information and Notification Everyday (VINE): VINE is a toll-free, 24-hour; anonymous, computer-based telephone service that provides victims of crime two important features, information, and notification. Victims may call VINE from any touch-tone telephone, any time, to check on an inmate's custody status. Victims may register with VINE for an automated notification call when an inmate is released, transferred, escapes and to learn of an inmate's parolee status if the inmate is parole eligible.
- Children Today, Leaders Tomorrow (CTLT): CTLT is a non-profit organization that offers programs such as "Aspire," "Be a Buddy not a Bully", Adopt - A - Grand Buddy, and "Stars." These programs are youth mentoring programs designed for both male and female youth. These programs encourage community involvement while fostering a supportive and positive opportunity for youth to engage in various community activities and projects. All of these programs are designed to reassure the youth of their value and worthiness within their community.
- The Elderly Victim Assistance Program (EVAP) Barbecue: The Elderly Victim Assistance Program (EVAP) Barbecue is sponsored jointly by the Chesapeake Sheriff's Office and the South Norfolk Ruritan Club. It benefits the EVAP, which provides assistance to elderly victims of crime.
